The New Washington Quarter Dollar

The new Washington quarter dollar was officially placed in circulation on August 1, and for a few days afterward they were handed out sparingly through the banks of the country to those who applied for them. The purpose of this is not clear. It was announced that only a few would be allowed any one person, the object being to prevent, if possible, their being sold at a premium. But as a matter of fact the policy of making them scarce and difficult to get encourages their sale at a profit. During June and July 6,248,800 quarters were struck, and it is expected the Philadelphia mint at least will continue their coinage in corresponding quantities for some time, and in a few weeks everybody will be able to secure all they want at any bank.

It should be remembered that, although the coin commemorates the two-hundredth anniversary of the birth of Washington, it is not a commemorative coin as the term is generally used by collectors. It is a regular Government issue of a new design and supplants the design first issued late in 1916 along with new designs for the 50 cents and the dime.

The obverse has a profile naked bust of Washington to left. Above, "LIBERTY" Below, "1932" At left, partly under the chin of the bust, "IN GOD WE TRUST" On the truncation of the bust, in small incuse letters, "JF" (John Flanagan, sculptor-designer).

The reverse has an eagle standing on a fasces, with outstretched wings, the outer edge of the wings following the circumference of the coin for a considerable distance. The space between the edge of the wings and the edge of the coin is partly filled with "UNITED STATES OF AMERICA" Between this and the head of the eagle is "E PLURIBUS UNUM" in two lines. Below the fasces are two branches of laurel, and below these "QUARTER DOLLAR"

An almost universal objection to the design just discontinued was that after a little wear the date on the obverse became almost obliterated. This objection was partly overcome a few years ago, and the Washington Bicentennial offered an opportunity to adopt an entirely new design. The objection to the old design must have been in Mr. Flanagan's mind while preparing his model, for he has placed the date between the truncation of the bust and the rim of the coin, both of which are considerably higher than the figures in the date, giving it ample protection from wear.

All in all, it is an attractive coin. The bust of Washington stands out in strong relief in contrast to the reverse, which appears somewhat crowded, particularly the part above the eagle's head. But sculptors are better judges of such things than laymen.

When sculptors were asked to submit designs for the new coin, one of the considerations named was that the bust of Washington must be modeled along the lines of the celebrated Houdon bust.

Jean Antoine Houdon, a French sculptor, was commissioned in 1785 to model a bust of Washington. He had recently executed a statue of Benjamin Franklin while the latter was staying in Paris. On Franklin's return to the United States he was accompanied by Houdon, who visited Washington at Mount Vernon, where he modeled a marble bust of him. A short time later he decided to return to Paris, taking the model with him for completion.

"How Houdon Came to Mount Vernon" is the title of a story that appeared in the Milwaukee Journal some months ago. Its republication in connection with the issue of the new quarter dollar seems timely:

How Houdon Came to Mount Vernon.

The two hundredth anniversary of George Washington's birth is to have an eight-month celebration—from February 22 to Thanksgiving Day, 1932. By the time it is over all Americans will be familiar with the appearance of the famous bust of Washington which the French sculptor, Houdon, came over from France to make. The United States commission for the celebration has chosen it to be the official "likeness" of Washington, to be used in books, pictures, on stamps and special coins.

The Houdon bust, modeled from life and regarded as having remarkable vigor and power, was made during a particularly peaceful and happy period in Washington's life. The War of the Revolution was over and he had retired to his beloved Mount Vernon, to develop its lawns and orchards, its "bolling green" and terraces; to plant and dig and experiment with fertilizer, grass and grains; to hunt, go to funerals, arrange marriages and plan improvements for the navigation of the Potomac. He had not yet been called from this happy retirement to become President of the new Government, and was free to indulge his natural bent toward the practices of a country gentleman's life.

The bust was made at the instance of the Legislature of Virginia, which resolved, in the year following the close of the Revolution, "that measures be taken for procuring a statue of General Washington, of the finest marble and best workmanship." Houdon was chosen for the work, and Benjamin Franklin, who was our representative in France at the time, arranged for the sculptor's journey to America.

Washington records the arrival in his diary of Sunday, October 2, 1785:

After we were in bed (about eleven o'clock in the evening), Mr. Houdon, sent from France by Doctr. Franklin and Mr. Jefferson to take my bust, in behalf of the State of Virginia, with three young men assistants, introduced by a Mr. Perin, a French Gentleman of Alexandria, arrived here by Water from the latter place.

Houdon was a gifted and cultivated Frenchman, then approaching the height of his fame and talents. The son of a domestic in the employ of a courtier, he early carried off the Prix de Rome and spent ten years in the Eternal City. When he came to Washington he was already famous for his "Morpheus," his "St. Bruno" and for busts of Catherine II, D'Alembert, Moliere, Prince Henry of Prussia, Buffon, Mirabeau, Voltaire and many others.

The courtier strain helped him to land on his feet in difficult places. Thus, when he was denounced to the convention during the French Revolution for creating a statue of St. Scholastica, he immediately transformed the saint into a presentment of "Philosophy." When Napoleon came into power Houdon was taken into favor and made a nude statue of him (now in Dijon), as well as a bust, and likewise busts of the Empress Josephine and Marshal Ney, and the colossal reliefs intended for the column of the Grand Army at Boulogne. Napoleon rewarded him with the Legion of Honor. The Napoleonic days were still in the future, however, when he arrived at that unseemly hour of 11 o'clock and wakened General Washington from his slumbers.

The sittings for the Washington bust were made in the midst of many activities on the part of the industrious host, and one marvels how he ever found time to sit still.

Sidelights on Numismatics

NO. 13. THE COUNTERFEITING LAWS OF ENGLAND IN THE REIGN OF GEORGE III (1760-1820).

It appears that the penalties prescribed for counterfeiting money in England during this reign were not as severe as those meted out for forgery. Forgery was a capital crime. In this connection it is very interesting to note that the British officer named Cunningham, who had Captain Nathan Hale in his custody from the time of the latter's capture, September 21, 1776, until his execution at 11 o'clock the following morning, was by the irony of fate, himself hanged in London, August 10, 1791, though not for his crimes committed in New York during the American War for Independence. He paid with his life after being convicted of forgery. No doubt General Washington, then our First President, must have read this news item with keen interest. The laws on counterfeiting of the money of the realm had some curious provisions.

I quote from William Nicholson's "British Encyclopedia," Volume III, American Edition, printed at Philadelphia, Pa., in 1819. The pages, strangely enough, are not numbered (!). Note the phrase "benefit of clergy," etc.

COIN, laws relating to. Counterfeiting the king's money, or bringing false money into the realm counterfeit to the money of England, clipping, washing, rounding, filing, impairing, diminishing, falsifying, scaling, lightening, edging, colouring, gilding, making, mending, or having in one's possession, any puncheon, counter puncheon, matrix, stamp, dye, pattern, mould, edger, or cutting engine: all these incur the penalty of high treason. And if any person shall counterfeit any such kind of gold or silver, as are not the proper coin of the realm, but current therein by the king's consent, he shall be guilty of high treason.

If any person shall tender in payment any counterfeit coin, he shall, for the first offence, be imprisoned six months; for the second offence, two years; and for the third offence shall be guilty of felony without benefit of clergy.

Blanching copper or other base metal, or buying or selling the same; and receiving or paying money at a lower rate than its denomination does import; and also the offence of counterfeiting copper half-pence and farthings; incur the penalty of felony, but within clergy. Counterfeiting coin not the proper coin of this realm, not permitted to be current therein, is misprision of treason. A person buying or selling, or having in his possession, clippings or filings, shall forfeit 500*l.* and be branded in the cheek with the letter R. And any person having in his possession a coining-press, or casting bars or ingots of silver, in imitation of Spanish bars or ingots, shall forfeit 500*l.*

A reward of 40*l.* is given for convicting a counterfeiter of the gold or silver coin; and 10*l.* for a counterfeiter of the copper coin.

EARLY RUSSIAN COINS UNEARTHED.

A press dispatch from Moscow says that a crew of building workers turned up a clay box while digging which was found to contain a cache of several pounds of old silver coins dating from the reigns of Ivan the Terrible and other Russian rulers of the sixteenth and seventeenth centuries. Historical experts who examined the find said they believed rich Moscow merchants had buried the coins during the Polish offensive against Moscow in 1613.

NEW SPANISH 50-PESETA NOTE HAS BUST OF VELAZQUEZ.

The portrait of the great Spanish painter Velazquez, who lived in such poverty that he probably never saw a bill worth as much as 50 pesetas in his life, adorns the new 50-peseta note just placed in circulation by the Spanish republic, says the New York Evening Post. This bill replaces the monarchical note of that denomination bearing the bust of Alfonso, the old currency to be gradually retired from circulation. Also on the right side of the new bank note, beside the great artist's portrait, is the Prado Museum of Madrid, which contains a valuable collection of Velazquez's works, and which is one of the great art museums of the world.

On the opposite side appears Velazquez's painting, "Surrender of Breda," commonly known as the "picture of the spears." This work, which hangs in the principal Velazquez room of the Prado, is considered one of the finest historical pictures in the world. It shows General Spinola, an Italian in the service of Spain, endeavoring to console Justin of Nassau, defeated Dutch leader, who is surrendering the keys of Breda after the early seventeenth century battle.

Julio Carabias, governor of the Bank of Spain, signed the bills, which were in reality printed three years ago but never put into circulation by the monarchical government. The first issue, totaling 10,000,000 pesetas, has just been placed in circulation, with more bills of this denomination and also of other denominations to follow.

Carrying out the motif of art still further, the new 50-peseta note bears the head of a "maja," or woman of the middle classes, by Goya, another great Spanish artist, among the most famous works of whom, both hanging in the Prado, are "Nude Maja" and "Dressed Maja." The head of the "maja" is visible on the bill only when this is held up to the light.

There has been some criticism here that the Republican government has not copied the shape of United States currency, instead of continuing to issue comparatively unwieldy paper, almost square, like the bank notes of France.

The artist who designed the bust of Velazquez appearing on the new 50-peseta bill was paid 12,000 gold pesetas for his work—probably more than Velazquez himself was paid for all his works combined.

Editorial Comment—Numismatic News

TIMES BRINGS CHANGES.

Collectors of all series of coins cannot fail to have noted the increasing number of those who collect the small United States cents in the higher grades of preservation and the consequent advance in prices of Uncle Sam's humble coin. Much of this is probably due to an increase in the number of collectors who began a few years ago to form collections of cents from coins found in circulation, many of whom later became dissatisfied with the condition of their coins after they had been obliged to purchase a few of the rarer dates in a high state of preservation, and finally accepted uncirculated or proof as their standard. Many of the collectors of large cents, who a few years ago would not go beyond 1857, have also added the small cent to their specialty. This demand has had the effect of boosting prices, and many small cents in uncirculated condition are selling today for a greater price than some of the late dates of large cents. Twenty-five years ago uncirculated small cents could be purchased at auction sales in lots of assorted dates at about two or three cents each.

It has also frequently been remarked that thirty to forty years ago many of the private or territorial issues of gold coins sold for slightly over face or bullion value, as no one collected them.

Perhaps the greatest advance on a coin has been that of the impression in white metal of the reverse die of the Confederate half dollar, with the card of J. W. Scott on the reverse. This, of course, is not a coin, but a token. This piece now brings $10 to $15, whereas twenty-five years ago one of them would frequently be found in a lot of tokens purchased at auction for ten cents each, and no dealer considered it worth listing separately in a catalog.

Truly, time brings many changes in numismatics as well as in other things of life.

AUSTRIAN STATE COIN CABINET REQUESTS A. N. A. CO-OPERATION.

A letter has recently been addressed to the American Numismatic Association by Dr. A. Loehr, who for many years has been the efficient director of the Federal Collection of medals, coins and tokens of the Austrian State in Vienna. In addition to its numerous treasures of the older numismatic series, Dr. Loehr has endeavored to expand the cabinet in his charge, along modern lines, so as to have it include anything correlated to numismatics which would be illustrative of the general history of money. In that connection Dr. Loehr is endeavoring to build up a collection of checks and securities, such as bonds and stock certificates, especially such as have become valueless, by reason of past and recent financial collapse in the various countries. Dr. Loehr appeals through the A. N. A. to collectors or institutions who might have worthless securities, certificates, checks or notes, with well-known signatures, which they might be willing to part with and donate to the Austrian collection.

As Dr. Loehr has extended many courtesies to the A. N. A., it is hoped that members will return these courtesies by responding, if in a position to comply with Dr. Loehr's request. Donations may be sent direct to: Dr. A. Loehr, Director of State Coin Cabinet, 5 Burggring, Vienna I, Austria, or in care of Moritz Wormser, 95 Fifth Avenue, New York City, who will take care of their delivery.

RARE FRENCH COINS BRING GOOD PRICES.

During July newspapers in this country carried news of the sale at auction in Paris of two French coins which brought big prices. The story was as follows:

"A silver one-franc piece, worth 20 cents when current, with the image of Charles X, Roi de la Ligue, dated 1590, sold for 40,000 francs ($1600) recently at a sale in the Hotel Drouot. A gold piece of Henry II, dated 1549, which was worth about $5 at the time of issue, at the same sale sold for 14,900 francs ($596)."

The sale was held in Paris on June 30. The expert and cataloguer was Clement Platt and the auctioneer was Andre Desvougues. The catalogue description was as follows (translation).

Gold Coin of Henry II, 1549.

No. 24—Henri d'Or, struck at Bayonne, crowned bust in armor to the r. Rev., shield of France crowned between two crowned H's. At the bottom the letter L. Splendid specimen. Very rare.

Silver Franc of Charles X, 1590.

No. 81—Silver Franc. Bust to l. in ermine cloak, and large crown. Rev., letter A in the center of a cross formed of four floriated fleurs-de-lis. Beautiful coin and of the greatest rarity.

NUMISMATICS AND POLITICS IN INDIA.

In the report of the General Secretary of the A. N. A. last month the name of Mesrobian J. Seth, M. R. A. S., of Calcutta, India, appeared as an applicant for membership in the Association. Mr. Seth is a dealer in as well as a collector of coins. He has written an interesting letter to General Secretary Wilson, which we publish below:

Dear Sir—Being a numismatist of 40 years' experience and a member of the Numismatic Society of India, I wish to become an active member of your Association. My esteemed friend and brother numismatist, Mr. C. E. Kotwall (No. 101 member of the A. N. A.), of 71 Nizam street, Bombay, has kindly sent me an application form for membership, with his recommendation, and I shall be glad if you will kindly enroll me as a member from the 1st of July, as per your rules.

Mr. Kotwall has sent for my perusal the May number of THE NUMISMATIST, and I have read it with much pleasure, as it is replete with much valuable information regarding American numismatics and numismatic societies, associations and clubs, and I heartily congratulate you on the success you have achieved during the past 40 years. It speaks volumes for the success and study of the noble science of numismatics in the United States. British India, with a population of 350,000,000, has one solitary numismatic society, with a poor membership roll of only 116 members. You have in the United States about 30 numismatic clubs, societies and associations, and your association can justly be proud of a big roll of 1200 active and honorary members. You publish a monthly magazine of 70 pages, mainly devoted to the study of numismatics, whereas the Numismatic Society of India, which has been in existence since 1910 (twenty years your junior), holds its meetings once a year and its only publication is the proceedings of the annual meetings, containing the presidential address, the annual accounts, the list of members and a list of the annual meetings held in different places since its inauguration in 1910. A very poor showing indeed and quite unworthy of a big and rich country like India. Yet India is clamoring for independence and self-government, and because the United States of America threw off the British yoke, the Indians think they can do likewise, but there can be no comparison between the highly cultured Americans and the millions of illiterate Indians, with no aspirations or ideals, to say nothing of the want of democratic ideas and fitness for self-government and complete independence, which has in recent years become the slogan of a handful of Indian nationalists and misguided patriots, imbued with Utopian if not Communistic ideas.

A people that lacks artistic and literary taste can never achieve greatness, and Indians, who are composed of diverse races and creeds, each antagonistic to the other, have not the ghost of a chance to gain independence, the preachings of Mahatma Gandhi and his satellites notwithstanding.

England, that has given peace and prosperity to the country for a century and a half, will never give up her hold on this country, for if she did, ruin and devastation of the fair country will follow immediately. As it is, under the very nose of the British lion, murders, arson and rapine are being daily committed in Bombay, the Gateway of India. If this is a foretaste of "swaraj" (self-government), woe betide the times when British protection is withdrawn from India. It will be a veritable pandemonium with all the evil forces let loose.

A certain section of the free-born citizens of America sympathize with the aspirations of the Indian nationalists, but if they were to come to this country and study the mentality of the Indians they would very soon change their opinion of the so-called oppression in India at the hands of an alien Government. England has done for India what no other government would have done for a conquered country. Yet the Indians do not seem to appreciate the manifold blessings of the British connection with their country. What was the population of India during the Mogol period, when famine and pestilence were the order of the day? During the British regime famines have practically disappeared, thanks to the railways; plague and pestilence are non-existent, due to sanitation and pure drinking water, and the population of India has trebled during the British occupation of the country since 1757.

I started my letter on numismatics and ended it on politics, and if the contents of this letter be of any interest to you and your brother journalists, you are quite at liberty to make use of them in THE NUMISMATIST or in the pages of any American journal interested in Indian affairs, in view of the political agitation that is going on in India at the present moment.

WANTS MINT TO RESUME STRIKING PROOFS.

As we all know, the United States Government discontinued minting proofs in 1915 and I believe that I am correct in stating that it was a great loss to all real collectors. I have never bothered to ask if it is known just why the Government discontinued making proofs. If I remember correctly, the cost was 10 cents over face. If this charge did not pay for the cost I feel sure that the average collector would gladly pay considerably more in order to see the return of these beautiful specimens.

I am hoping that through the efforts of THE NUMISMATIST and others who must be interested in this matter that pressure will be brought to bear on the proper authorities in Washington with a view of again having proof coins available.

I trust that you will give this matter some publicity, as it would be interesting to hear from other readers on the subject.

ERIC LEAVENS.

Red Bank, N. J., August 4.

NEW OR RECENT ISSUES.

Germany—A four-pfennig piece of Germany appears to be a new denomination, at least in recent years. It is struck in copper and is dated 1932.

Before the German confederation in 1870 copper coins of four-pfennigs were not uncommon in some of the old German States, and occasionally copper pieces of considerably higher denominations were issued.

THAT PLOWED-UP CONTINENTAL PLATE CRITICISED.

Having recently taken a great interest in comparing various Continental counterfeits with the genuine, I was led to look up the cut on page 154 of the March, 1930, issue of THE NUMISMATIST showing a copper plate of the Nov. 2nd, 1776, Continental issue that was plowed up in a field in South Carolina. I find this to be a wonderfully crude imitation, bearing the ear marks, I should say, of decidedly amateur work.

Anyone interested in comparison will find the most noticeable differences from a genuine bill coming under three divisions, namely, borders, vignette and inscription.

In the left border the 3 of 30 in the little block at the lower left hand is much too high. The loop or curve of the letter l in Continental is very much too wide.

In the upper border the letters ITED of UNITED do not tip toward the right as much as they do in the genuine, and the O and L and the E and C of COLONIES are much too widely separated.

In the right border the vertically curved portion of C in Continental is too straight up and down, and the u in Currency is too small.

In the bottom border the T of UNITED is badly proportioned, and the S of COLONIES is extremely noticeable by its great distance from E.

In the vignette the S of SI and the S of FACIES tip altogether too much to the right, and the first letter of RECTE is a B instead of an R. In the wreath the leaves especially at the right are very badly formed, and the pedestal is in poor perspective, giving it the appearance of slanting downward at the left side.

In the inscription the T of the second THIRTY and the second c in according, together with the t of Resolution and the second s in passed, are noticeably closer to the vignette than in the genuine, and all the letters and figures of the date are about double the size they should be.

One of the most glaring errors of all is in the beginning of the inscription where there is such a duplication of the word This.

While the old plate shows many more minor crudities, the above mentioned are the most apparent.

JOHN M. RICHARDSON.

HISTORY REPEATS ITSELF.

After a lapse of thirty-five years, the Labor Exchange Movement, or something very similar, has been revived in Milwaukee. The history of the Labor Exchange Movement of the 1890's was given in last month's issue in an article by Waldo C. Moore, with illustrations of some of the scrip used in the movement.

The news of the revival comes in an Associated Press dispatch from Milwaukee, and its principal feature is that a modernized form of barter will take the place of United States currency as a medium of exchange. The movement is intended to help the "white-collar" unemployed man to help himself.

In order to help this class of unemployed who are trying to avoid charity, if possible, the Rev. Dr. George Mecklenburg, pastor of the Wesley Methodist Episcopal Church, Milwaukee, has launched the enterprise, to be known as the Organized Unemployed, to be operated and directed by the idle themselves to their own benefit.

Working to help the jobless within his own church, Dr. Mecklenburg found farmers willing to exchange produce for work, home owners who would exchange wearing apparel and household goods for minor repairs and odd jobs.

Enlarging on this, farmers in twenty-five nearby townships are being solicited for jobs in exchange for produce, and home owners throughout the city are being canvassed for odd jobs. Whatever workers earn in this manner is to be stored in vacant buildings donated rent free for the purpose.

Workers themselves, however, are to be paid in barter money provided by Organized Unemployed, and the scrip is to be used by them to purchase food and apparel from the storehouses.

"It is planned, too, as a sort of big brother movement to aid the small home and property owners," Dr. Mecklenburg said. "One of our major efforts will be in the direction of working up sentiment against foreclosure of mortgaged homes."

During the winter months unemployed musicians in the group will give weekly concerts in theaters which are to be donated rent free. Movies and other forms of recreation also will be provided.

"Organized Unemployed is in no sense a charity," declared Dr. Mecklenburg. "It plans no doles and no gifts for unemployed. It will neither seek nor accept money. It is an effort to help unemployed to help themselves."

IN COMMEMORATION OF THE DEATH OF GUSTAF II ADOLPH.

Plans are being made to hold celebrations in Sweden on November 6 in commemoration of the 300th anniversary of the death of Gustaf II Adolph, the great hero of Sweden. Similar celebrations will also be held in Germany and already a number of exhibitions have been opened. In keeping with the spirit of the occasion the firm of D. Holmberg's Mynthandel, of Stockholm, has issued a catalog of coins of Gustaf II Adolph at fixed prices. A copy of the catalog (No. 60) can be had on application.

TWO RECENT MEDALS STRUCK IN THE PHILIPPINE ISLANDS.

Gilbert S. Perez, District Secretary of the A. N. A. for the Philippine Islands, sends information on two medals recently issued there.

The first Masonic medal ever struck in the Philippines and, perhaps, in Asia, is the artistic George Washington Bicentennial medal by which the M. W. Grand Lodge of the Philippine Islands, the only sovereign body of regular Masonry in Asia, commemorates the celebration by it, on March 19, 1932, of the two hundredth anniversary of the birth of George Washington. The medal is of bronze, 2 inches in diameter, and weighs 57 grams. The obverse, designed by Bro. Charles S. Banks, 32d degree, K. C. C. H., shows the Washington Monument in the Federal Capital, various Masonic symbols, text concerning the object of the medal, and the following quotation: "Let those follow the pursuit of ambition & fame who have a keener relish for them. I see a path clear & direct as a ray of light, which leads to happiness for my country." On the reverse of the medal is the great seal of the Grand Lodge of the Philippine Islands. The medal was manufactured by the Philippine Education Company, under the supervision of Bro. C. W. Rosenstock, 32d degree, P. G. M. Only three hundred of these medals have been struck.

The other medal commemorates the Golden Jubilee of the Knights of Columbus, issued by Manila Council, No. 100. It was struck in silver and bronze in very limited quantities, and was fabricated in the establishment of Crispulo Zamora. The obverse bears the emblem of the order, with "Manila Council No. 1000, Philippine Islands," surrounding. The reverse has a small bust of Columbus in the center, which separates "1882" and "1932." Below the bust is "K. of C." The inscription surrounding is "Golden Jubilee of the Order," separated by four shields.

THE NUMISMATIST AND THE A. N. A. TWENTY-FIVE YEARS AGO.

The September, 1907, issue of THE NUMISMATIST contained the following articles: "German History and Small Coins"; "A History of American Coinage"; "Queer Kinds of Money." A report of the sale of the great Stickney collection of coins in Philadelphia, June 25 to 29, is given by Farran Zerbe, in which the prices realized on a number of the rarer pieces is given. The total amount realized for the five days was $37,859.21. The result of the election of officers at the Columbus Convention of the A. N. A. is also given. Farran Zerbe was elected president and Howland Wood was reelected secretary. There is also a cartoon of the Columbus Convention. The department devoted to the A. N. A. contains the names of 26 applicants for membership. The death of Augustus St. Gaudens on August 3 is announced. He was the sculptor-designer of the new gold coins of the United States first issued in 1907.

NUMISMATIC NOTES AND MONOGRAPHS.

No. 54 of the series of Numismatic Notes and Monographs issued by the American Numismatic Society, New York City, has been mailed to its members. It is entitled "An Egyptian Hoard of the Second Century, A. D.," and the author is Shirley H. Weber. It describes a small hoard of silver coins purchased by Mr. Newell in Cairo in 1923 which had recently been found at Sakha, in the Delta. Three plates illustrate a number of the coins.

SILVER COINAGE ASKED TO AID METAL'S MARKET.

A resolution asking Congress to coin 25,000,000 silver dollars and the same number of half dollars as a means of stimulating the silver market was passed unanimously at the thirty-fourth annual convention of the Montana State Federation of Labor. All labor organizations of the country will be asked to pass similar resolutions. The silver, under the proposal, would be purchased from silver mines of the United States.

Toward the New Prosperity

A Statement on the Business Outlook

JOSEPH T. MACKEY, in the Linotype News.

Let's be done with the vain hope of bringing back the prosperity of early 1929. We want to look forward to a New Prosperity that will be more substantial and lasting. Let's stop our wishful waiting for miracles. Business got itself in a jam and business must pull itself out. The New Prosperity can be created only through the efforts of those to whom business has intrusted its responsibilities—its directors, executives, foremen, engineers. We must all have the courage to face the fact that the old landmarks are gone; that the old formulas won't work any more; that precedents are dangerous and the knowledge won of hard experience may be all wrong under today's conditions.

We have been, and still are, too much concerned with fictitious values. We need to refresh our thinking by contact with facts. The biggest fact we can wrap our minds around is that 125 million people in this country need to be fed, clothed, housed and provided with radios, automobiles, tooth brushes, books and newspapers. That is the only basis for real prosperity.

Of the material things needed to create this kind of prosperity we have enough and to spare. Never in its history has mankind seen such a glut of real riches—of copper, iron and grain. The economic machinery for converting these raw materials to man's use and distributing their benefits is still intact and essentially sound, though creaking and groaning dismally in many of its parts. If its weaknesses were centered at any one point, there would not be so great a divergence of opinion as to the remedy.

As our individual enterprises have become more firmly knit into an economic structure that is national and international, too many minds have clung to the archaic idea that one part can benefit at the expense of the other parts.

As we see it, the achievement of the New Prosperity need not wait upon the completion of any "cycle," or the accomplishment of any superhuman miracle. It waits only on the determination of business itself to bring it about.

And the way to achieve it is this:

Let us each individually, wherever we are placed, make a searching analysis of that part of the economic structure for which we are personally responsible. Let us eliminate waste and lost motion, let us fully utilize every means to efficient production and distribution that modern inventive genius has put at our command.

Then let us strive to bring our own unit into harmonious relationship with the whole. To remember that our own interests are bound up in the interests of those with whom we are associated, with those from whom we buy and those to whom we sell and with all others who are seeking to serve in the same field.

It is a time that calls for brave decisions. Antiquated equipments and obsolete methods must be ruthlessly scrapped. Some businesses should be curtailed, others must seek new fields, some should be courageously expanded.

By our own inventive efforts, by the exercise of our organizing genius, we have brought about a condition in which no one can long enjoy prosperity unless it is shared by all. To recognize that condition is not altruism; it is only intelligent self-interest.

WE'VE SEEN A GOOD MANY OF THEM OVER HERE.

While it may not be true that Britons are reckless in the spending of money—as a matter of fact the majority are not—they are careless, says the Brooklyn Eagle, with their pennies. For instance, statistics just made public by the authorities of the Royal Mint show that between 1860 and the end of 1930 a total of 1,760,000,000 pennies were minted, of which 86,000,000 have been withdrawn from circulation.

The banks hold less than 400,000,000. Assuming that every person in Great Britain has in his or her possession six pennies, that would account for 250,000,000. Once more indulging in assumption, 500,000,000 may be in the possession of shops, transit corporations, gas companies and the like. This makes the total 1,150,000,000. But where are the remaining 500,000,000? Apparently the answer is that they have been lost.

"GET-TOGETHER" SOCIABLE IN FRISCO.

A dinner was tendered the members of the Pacific Coast Numismatic Society by Farran Zerbe at the Colonial Hotel, San Francisco, on August 11. Mr. Zerbe reached San Francisco on August 1 on his way to the Los Angeles convention of the A. N. A., and the dinner was a sociable "get-together" for the members of the P. C. N. S., which Mr. Zerbe was largely instrumental in forming during his stay there in 1915. We are in receipt of one of the menus for the occasion. With such a menu the party should have had no difficulty in getting together.

R. N. A.'S. THIRD OUTING.

The feature of the third outing of the Rochester Numismatic Association on August 6 was the 1932 championship horseshoe pitching contest, in which the 1931 champions were all unseated and replaced by new champions, Mr. Sloane taking first place, Mr. Liess second and Mr. Bauer third. Gold, silver and bronze medals, with Washington on one side and the contest on the other, were awarded the winners.

AND THIS HAPPENED IN ILLINOIS!

They held Glenn Graddock, bank cashier, of Morrison, Ill., in jail for an hour yesterday because he offered a silver dollar in payment for gasoline. The filling-station attendant never had seen a silver dollar and thought he was being slicked.—Newspaper Clipping.

Harwood Frost, chairman of the committee working in conjunction with the Century of Progress on a numismatic exhibit, officially advised that the allotment of space for such an exhibit has been made, but in view of the pending negotiations for merging the exhibit with a bank enterprise, under consideration, the matter has not taken any definite form.

A communication from the Lightner Publishing Co. relative to the coming annual hobby, antiques and collectors' exhibit, November 16, 1932, listing the availability of space and the underlying issue in this enterprise, was tabled until the next meeting.

Harry T. Wilson was appointed delegate to the American Numismatic Association convention, with instructions to invite the A. N. A. convention to Chicago for the coming year, 1933.

NEW ZEALAND NUMISMATIC SOCIETY—Sixth meeting, April 4. A meeting of the council of the society was held at the Turnbull Library, Wellington. The Rev. D. C. Bates, president, occupied the chair.

It was decided to arrange for a six months' trial subscription to The Numismatist.

Six new members were elected, as follows: Major R. W. Russell, A.D.C., Mrs. T. B. Strong, Messrs. E. G. Pilcher, J. W. M. Smith, Wellington, Mr. Henry Abraham, Khandallah, and Mr. P. Watts Rule, Timaru.

Reference was made to the dispatch to the Royal Mint of worn silver and copper coins on hand at different banks, and an interesting discussion arose regarding the liability of either the State or the banks to redeem worn or mutilated coins of the realm in private hands. It was contended that since coins were in most cases little more than legal tokens used for exchange purposes, they should not be refused by the issuing authorities any more than bank notes or cheques should be refused if in bad condition. It was claimed that the issuing authority had obtained credit or services for such coins and that the last holders should not be deprived of their face value merely because they had become worn through processes of time or damaged in any other legitimate manner.

After routine business had been dealt with the coin section of the evening was commenced, and members spent an interesting evening studying and acquiring specimens for their cabinets.

NEW ZEALAND NUMISMATIC SOCIETY—June 27. The first annual meeting of the New Zealand Numismatic Society was held at the Turnbull Library, Wellington. There was a good attendance of members. The President, the Rev. D. C. Bates, occupied the chair.

Officers for the ensuing year were elected as follows: President, the Rev. D. C. Bates; vice-presidents, J. C. Entrican, Auckland; the Ven. Archdeacon G. H. Gavin, F.R.N.S., New Plymouth; E. K. Cameron, Hawera; Prof. J.

Rankine Brown, and Dr. J. S. Elliott, Wellington; Prof. R. Speight, Christchurch; Col. G. Cowie Nicols, Maheno, and Mr. C. Gilbertson, Invercargill, council, Johannes Andersen, S. P. Ward, H. R. Ford, E. Gilbertson and L. C. Todd. Hon. general and corresponding secretary, Allan Sutherland (Hansard Rooms, Parliament House, Wellington, N. Z.); Hon. treasurer, F. K. Lowe.

New members were elected as follows: Messrs. J. P. M. Bertram, H. Tilley, Wellington, and A. H. Elliott, London.

It was decided that each member of the society be supplied gratis with future issues of the New Zealand Magazine, the official organ of the society.

In order to mark the occasion of the first Annual Meeting, Mr. H. R. Ford donated £1.1.0 to the funds of the society, for which he was accorded a hearty vote of thanks.

The president, the Rev. D. C. Bates, then proceeded to deliver a brief but very entertaining address on Papal medals, illustrating his remarks by some fine examples of Papal medals from his private collection. These commemorative medals, which ranged from the sixteenth century to the nineteenth century, were greatly admired for the fine portraiture, which was rendered more lifelike and interesting by the remarks of the speaker, who associated with each Pontiff some incident or characteristic that bridged the periods separating their lives and times from our own. As a numismatist, stated the president, his interest lay primarily with specimens treasured for their historic interest rather than for their merit in art, rarity or intrinsic value. He regarded his specimens as links in the chain which bound the ages together and added intense reality to the study of the lives and movements of the different races. He had pleasure in calling on Allan Sutherland, the enthusiastic and industrious Hon. secretary—to whom the society owed its existence—to deliver a short paper on "Coins as Keys to History, and Modern Aspects of Numismatic Studies." Mr. Bates was accorded a hearty vote of thanks for his interesting address.

Mr. Sutherland then read a short paper surveying the wide field available for numismatic study and covering a variety of topics of general numismatic interest. Subjects referred to by Mr. Sutherland were: The origin of coins and banknotes; the evolution of coinages symbolizing the progressive development of art, commerce, and religious beliefs of many peoples; the value of coins as keys to history; the probable origin of coin collecting and the development of the science of numismatics; the fascination of handling, studying, and musing over the probable histories of mute pieces of metal in our collections that come to us from departed ages; the mythical and real value of some coins; the survival of ancient coin terms; the exchange difficulties and the advent of the modern money-changer; the paradoxical situation created by the phenomenal rise in the price of gold and the slump in silver bullion prices; the momentous times through which the world was passing as reflected in coins and forms of currency of today; the Colonial inflation of silver coins one hundred years ago; modern instances where paper money preferred to silver money; quaint forms of metallic and note currencies, ancient and modern; the debasing of British silver coinage; the general decline in artistic merit and metal content of modern coinages; error coins and tokens; some notable numismatists, past and present, and the excellent classical designs of modern Italian coins and the probable reason therefor. Mr. Sutherland contended that the fascinating pursuit of studying and collecting coins and medals was not necessarily a rich man's pursuit, for many ancient and interesting specimens could be acquired at small cost. He stated that interest in numismatics was also possible through addresses, exhibitions, and the circulation of up-to-date numismatic literature without actually collecting specimens. Leisure hours could be pleasurably spent with coins and coin-friends, and the time thus devoted was of distinct educational value, inasmuch as numismatic study cultivated keenness of observation and appreciation for detail, and unfolded a clearer historical vista than was possible to obtain only from the pages of historical works. In comparing the pursuits of philately and numismatics, Mr. Sutherland said that whilst the stamp field was probably a little wider in the immediate sense, it was a much more recent development, whereas coins and medals went deep into the roots of civilization, and the metallic specimens that came to us brought with them an historical background and an intrinsic value not possessed by philatelic specimens. Mr. Sutherland concluded by some interesting references to modern aspects of the study of the science of numismatics and was accorded a hearty vote of thanks for his interesting and topical paper.

A small exhibition of notable New Zealand medals—probably the first of its kind to be held in the Dominion—was arranged during the evening.

RUSH FOR BURIED COINS AT SARATOGA SPRINGS, N. Y.

Reports are frequently published in the daily press of hoards of coins being dug up in different parts of the country. The value of the coins in most instances is greatly exaggerated, and the number of coins found is frequently overstated, but they all have an interest for collectors because of the possibility that among the lot there may be a rarity or two. The latest rush reported is one at Saratoga Springs, N. Y., on July 26. We give some of the details of it as reported in the press.

"State troopers halted a gold rush on State property here today, but not until treasure-seekers had carried away with them gold and silver coins of an estimated value of $1,000 to $3,000. The rush began yesterday when it was learned that money was being unearthed by workmen excavating for the foundation of a new drink hall on the Saratoga Springs State Reservation. Immediately crowds flocked to the scene and when the troopers, by direction of Attorney General Bennett, stopped mining operations today, 300 men with shovels and picks were delving in the earth.

"The coins ranged in value from $20 gold pieces down to the old-fashioned silver 3-cent coins. The latest date on any coin was 1890 and the earliest was minted in the early part of the eighteenth century. The coins were found in tin cans, preserve jars and other containers. One man is reported to have unearthed a milk bottle containing $300 in gold. Three other men unearthed about $400 between them, and other individuals obtained lesser sums.

"Attorney General Bennett, when the matter was brought to his attention today, directed that the State police put a stop to the mining operations on the ground that treasure found on State property belonged either to the State or to the owner of the property prior to its acquisition by the State."

OH, YEAH!

Postmaster Joseph M. Evans, of Maple Shade, N. J., has in his possession a rare United States silver dollar. It is dated 1799 and bears thirteen stars, designating the thirteen original states. According to Mr. Evans, the Treasury Department has located all but one of these coins, which may be the one he has. The coin is in perfect condition, despite its having been in circulation 133 years. Evans has owned the coin twenty years and has refused some tempting offers from numismatists.—Newspaper Clipping.

SQUARE COINS SUGGESTED TO AID HOLDING MONEY.

There is no shortage of suggestions as to how to solve the puzzling silver question. In a stack of mail full of plans and ideas Chairman Somers of the House Coinage Committee, which is making a silver investigation, found this one:

"Have silver coins made square so they won't slip out of our fingers so fast."

A press dispatch from Rome says that in the last two months Italian women have sold $900,000 worth of old gold and jewelry to the Bank of Italy to augment the gold reserve. In that period $300,000 in old gold coins has been exchanged.

(The following resolutions were passed at the convention of the A. N. A. held in Cincinnati, Ohio, August 29 to September 3 and ordered published in THE NUMISMATIST.)

Whereas information has been received that fraud is being practiced in the purchase of back numbers of The Numismatist upon those who have them for sale; and

Resolved, That members approached with an offer to buy their back numbers immediately correspond with any officer of the A. N. A. as to the standing and reliability of the party making such offer; and be it further

Resolved, That these resolutions be conspicuously published at intervals for the space of one year, at the discretion of the Editor and Business Manager.
